Form 990, Part I, Line 1, Description of Organization Mission:

40+ local coalitions in 25 states engaged in organizing and public advocacy campaigns for workers' rights and economic justice. The mission of the organization is to lead the fight for workers' rights and an economy that benefits all workers. By bringing together labor, community, student, and faith voices at the national and local levels, we are creating innovative solutions to the problems workers face today. Alongside workers across the country, we lead, participate in, and support on-the-ground and online campaigns that advocate for workers' rights. Core issues we organize and advocate around include immigrant rights, corporate accountability, minimum wage, economic recovery, healthcare, and collective bargaining rights for workers.

As an organization with a network of grassroots organizations we also provide financial and technical support to our local affiliates to effectively conduct outreach and public education activities related to workers' rights issues, and to engage in winning workplace justice and community campaigns focused on expanding access to health care coverage, protecting our public safety net programs like Medicaid/Medicare and Social Security, improving public education statewide, advocating for increased access to childcare services for low-wage families, and many more.

Form 990, Part III, Line 4d, Other Program Services:

Developing Leaders and Activists to Guide our Struggles: Through our National Training and Leadership Development program we involve our national staff and network in new forms of organizing and strategic innovative thinking to advance overall organizing efforts, expand, and strengthen existing relationships to advance their work. Since the launch of the program we have trained over 100 leaders, organizers, and activists.

Developing Credible Workers' Rights Spokespeople and Resources to Shape the Public Discourse: As national organization dedicated to implementing real change for workers and their families across the country, we recognize the importance and impact of intentionally influencing the public discourse on workers' rights. In developing credible workers' rights spokespersons we aspire to be a reliable voice on workers' rights by producing original research on key issues; engaging in the debate via traditional media and new media projects and
